

Write. Now.

Sit down and do this.

Write down the first five girls names that come to your head. Don't self censor. Just write.

Now write down where each of these names came from. Are they your favourites? Are they relatives names? Is your sister about to have a baby and you like one of the names she's chosen?

If it came out of thin air, write what you like about the name.

Choose one. You're going to create the character that has this name.

Write a brief physical description of the character. Who do you see?

How old is this character? Where does she come from? How does she live? What does she do for a living? If she's a student, then that's her job.

Give this person three memories, favourite, least favourite and most impactful.

Write a monologue where she shares for the first time her impactful memory and why it still affects her.

You wrote today. Well done.